Abstract

AACC International was founded in 1915 in St. Paul, Minnesota, as the American Association of Cereal Chemists. The membership elected to change the name of the organization in 2005 to AACC International to better reflect the global nature of their membership and industry. The organization is dedicated to the advancement and support of scientific and technical research in cereal grains and related products. AACC International identifies, gathers, and disseminates information and knowledge on cereal grains and their products to its worldwide member base. The organization shares its gathered knowledge through annual meetings, short courses, books, and journals such as Cereal Chemistry and Cereal Foods World. This collection contains copies of the by-laws and constitution, organizational histories, awards information, correspondence, financial records, annual meeting programs, committee, division, and section files, membership directories and lists, manuals, newsletters, photographs, publications information, staff memoranda, and short courses. The records starting in the 1960s are more complete and are regularly supplemented with information on annual meetings, awards, correspondence, and articles.

Historical note

The American Association of Cereal Chemists was founded in 1915 in St. Paul, Minnesota, as an organization dedicated to the advancement and support of scientific and technical research on cereal grains and related products. Since its founding the organization has expanded its influence and membership and is now composed of scientists and professionals from around the world. The membership elected to change the name of the organization in 2005 to AACC International to better reflect the global nature of their membership and industry.

According to its vision statement, AACC International strives to be the "premier worldwide organization for advancing grain science and related technologies." To fulfill this mission AACC International identifies, gathers, and disseminates information and knowledge on cereal grains and their products to its worldwide member base. The organization shares its gathered knowledge through annual meetings, short courses, books, and journals such as Cereal Chemistry (call no. TS2120 C334) and Cereal Foods World (call no. TS2120 C3351).

The organization is governed by its officers and the Board of Directors. The Board of Directors consists of ten members: President, President-Elect, Treasurer, Immediate Past President (Chair of the Board), and six others elected from the organization's membership.

Collection description

This collection (1915-[ongoing]) contains copies of the by-laws and constitution; organizational histories; awards information; correspondence; financial records, including the Building Fund drive; annual meeting programs; committee, division, and section files; membership directories and lists; manuals; newsletters; Osborne Medal presentations; photographs; publications information about Cereal Chemistry; staff memoranda; and short courses.

Early records in the collection include meeting minutes, membership information, publications, and information about the journal Cereal Chemistry. The records starting in the 1960s are more complete and are regularly supplemented with information on annual meetings, awards, correspondence, and articles. Records from various sections, primarily the Northwest Section, can be found throughout the listing.

The first appendix lists photographic negatives available in the collection. The negatives are housed separately from the collection and stored in the Special Collections Department's vault. The images are primarily of annual meetings, conferences, and short courses. Some images are unidentified. A second appendix identifies acronyms found throughout the finding aid.

Description of series

Series 2      Publications      1923-2004, undated

description: The series contains files related to various AACC International publications, newsletters, and journals, including Cereal Chemistry. Copies of many of the newsletters are included in the series. The files also include handbooks, manuals, and other manuscripts published by AACC International. Many of these publications are cataloged and available in the ISU Library's general collection as well.
